STORMY WEATHER

High winds were also the cause of a huge limb being torn from the trunk of one of the largest Bur Oak trees in Kentucky Monday night. Thankfully, the limb fell harmlessly across the driveway of the Harrison County Extension Office.

Cynthiana receives brunt of Monday's brief, but damaging thunderstorm

By JOSH SHEPHERD, NEWS WRITER

A severe thunderstorm with wind gusts estimated at over 60 miles-per-hour lingered over Harrison County early Monday night, tearing down large tree limbs and damaging the roof lines of at least one Cynthiana business as well as a city utility building.

A branch from a massive Bur Oak tree in the side lawn of the Harrison County Extension Office was ripped from the tree trunk and landed in the front yard.

The branch was several feet in diameter and measured taller than the height of an average man.

The tree is very resilient, Evonne Blackburn, a staff member of the Extension Office said. It has survived high winds and several lightning strikes before, she said.

"We're glad the limb fell where no one was injured and that the building wasn't damaged," she said.

Workers at Southern States were cleaning up strips of metal roofing lying crumpled in the parking lot along Railroad Avenue. The metal had been torn off the storage building near the intersection of Railroad Avenue and McIlvain Boulevard.

High winds also tore off the roof of the Cynthiana Water Treatment plant on Safety Way.

According to Gary Royalty, Cynthiana's director of public works, the building sustained some water damage. However, operations at the water treatment plant were unaffected.

"The facility is a pretty tough place. We took precautions for the safety of our workers, but the plant itself kept right on going," Royalty said.

He had also been assured that the city's insurance would cover the damage and repair.

Royalty complimented the response of his crew when damage occurred at the plant.

"The storm hit at 8:45 p.m. and there were people there in ten minutes. The electrician was there in 15 minutes," Royalty said.

Electricity was knocked out in the Grandview area of Cynthiana for approximately three hours. A few isolated areas around Harrison County were also without power.

There were no injuries reported from the storm.

Cedarbrook owner says he will not abandon sewer plant

By JOSH SHEPHERD, NEWS WRITER

R.A. Williams Construction Company CEO Ron Osborne officially withdrew his request to abandon the Cedarbrook sewer plant in a letter to the Kentucky Public Service Commission (PSC) last Monday, June 16.

According to the letter that Osborne submitted to the PSC, the company preferred to be a participant in the discussion to explore alternatives to closure of the plant.

"We welcome the opportunity to work with these groups to find a proper solution to this situation," Osborne wrote.

Osborne made specific reference to a Cynthiana Democrat story concerning a public meeting which Harrison County Judge-Executive Alex Barnett organized on behalf of Cedarbrook neighborhood residents earlier this month.

At that meeting the possible formation of a special sewer district, which could be established by permission of the Harrison County Fiscal Court, was a major point of discussion.

"The formation of a special sewer district has been discussed previously but has never been fully explored," Osborne wrote.

However, the letter that the PSC expected to receive on June 14 was not a withdrawal of Osborne's abandonment request.

Instead, it was seeking answers, under oath, to a list of 16 questions that the PSC posed to R.A. Williams last March to justify its intention to close and abandon Cedarbrook's troubled wastewater treatment facility.

In R.A. Williams' request to abandon the facility, the company claimed that it was owed over $216,000 by the treatment plant. That figure was in addition to the $39,508 in unpaid sewer bills, Osborne wrote.

Osborne said that the majority of Cedarbrook's residents were in arrears for their monthly sewer bills. A few are only a few months behind. However, the company alleged that some

Refugee pays it forward by serving in the US Army

By JOSH SHEPHERD, NEWS WRITER

When one imagines an American army veteran, it's not likely that the image they see is that of Leon La. In fact, when he joined the army in his early 30s, there were only a few recruits in basic training that were even close to his age.

There is not very much that is typical about La. When people meet him at his family business, the Something Different nail salon in Harrison Square, one cannot imagine that this soft spoken and gentle man is not only an army veteran, but that his two tours of duty in Afghanistan and Iraq involved just a little less risk than his own childhood in his native Cambodia.

The sound of rushing waters demands our attention

Last weekend my family went to Cumberland Falls State Park for a short camping trip. Now, if you know me, you may be surprised that I like to camp. In fact, I am surprised that I like to camp. I must admit, there is less appeal in a hot, buggy, hard-floored tent than in a cool and comfortable hotel room.

And, if you have ever camped with kids, you understand how much stuff we packed in order to accommodate them. Not only was our trunk full, we hauled a trailer filled with “necessities” and enough food to last until winter. As we were sweating under the hot afternoon sun unpacking our “loot,” I began to giggle at how far we have come from the simple life. When did something so simple -- like camping under the stars -- become so complicated? After we set up camp, we went for a hike. Ahhhhhh....now I remember why I like to camp. Being on the hiking trails with nothing (and no one) to distract us from God’s creation, we began to relax. As we were hiking up to Eagle Falls, we stopped to get a glimpse of the big falls (Cumberland Falls). It was magnificent to look around and see the sun sparkling on the river and feel the sweetness of the cool mist on our faces. As we stood there in awe, I began to notice the intensity of the sound of rushing waters as the river powerfully moved toward the fall. It is a sound that demands attention and reverence; it is a signal to us that this majestic beauty, as calming and peaceful as it is, is also fierce and unstoppable. In the book of Revelation, John says this about Jesus: “His head and hair were white like wool, as white as snow, and his eyes were like a blazing fire. His feet were like bronze glowing in a furnace, and his voice was like the sound of rushing waters.” (Rev.1:14) I have heard the sound of the falls several times on previous hikes, but this particular afternoon, the Lord was revealing something to my heart. Our God is not small, folks. The God we serve is Mighty and Fierce. When we catch a glimpse of the true enormity of our Creator and His Love

Bullet-proof glass to be added security measure at Harrison schools

By JOSH SHEPHERD, News Writer

Harrison County Schools will begin installing an expanded security system during the next school year, which will include bullet-proof safety glass enclosures in school lobbies.

The school board approved a request from Assistant Superintendent David Case to advertise for bids for the purchase and installation of the security upgrades.

These upgrades will affect every building to some extent, Case said.

The upgraded security plan is designed to manage public access to the front office during regular school hours, Case explained.

Security procedures for parents, visitors and delivery people will remain basically the same, Case said. Locked glass enclosures will separate the entrance lobby from the classrooms. People will check in and register at the front office and be buzzed back into the school as normal.

The additions will add an interior entrance so that visitors don't have to punch a buzzer like a doorbell to be allowed inside. They can be inside, out of the weather; when they announce themselves to the front office, Case said.

But the glass enclosure will also have spaces for more efficient package and mail delivery, he added.

Creating an interior check-in point also gives office personnel better control over security in the building.

Additional security measures will be the installation of video cameras in several of the elementary schools.

Board members gave approval for Case to advertise for security equipment installation, but not without commentary about the sad fact that these security measures have become necessary.

"It's a shame that we have come to this point where public and private schools have to have this level of security for children to be safe," board member Gary Dearborn stated prior to giving his approval.

In other business, the school board:

- Approved the volleyball team attending an overnight volleyball competition camp at Western Kentucky University from July 10-12.
- Approved a field trip for the Breds Baseball team to attend a Cincinnati Reds game on July 11.
- Approved the Breds Baseball team's participation in the Florida Gulf Coast Tournament in Pensacola, Florida, during the 2015 spring break.
- Approved a recommendation to purchase student insurance from R. J. Roberts at a cost of $149,000.

- Approved renewing the banking agreement with Kentucky Bank for a second year.
- Approved annual membership dues for the Kentucky School Board Association at $4,556.
- Approved purchase orders for the high school renovation and fieldhouse construction. The fieldhouse has a certificate of occupancy, Case said. It just lacked a few minor details from being complete.
- Approved a special board meeting and retirement reception on August 5 beginning at 6:30 p.m. at the administration building.

Be thinking about Operation Christmas Child this summer

By JOSH SHEPHERD, News Writer

Make "Christmas in July" sales a bargain for your holiday giving this year. Summer sales are a perfect time to gather gifts for Operation Christmas Child shoeboxes.

Dawn Arnold and Nickie Power, coordinators for Operation Christmas Child in the local area for Samaritan's Purse, said that people spend too much money on shoebox items if they wait until November.

It's the same logic smart shoppers use when they buy Christmas gifts in the off-season, Arnold said.

Taking advantage of sales allow your charitable dollars to go further.

"Nickie and I have found that the best time to stock up on gifts for the next Operation Christmas Child is in after-Christmas sales," she explained. Their respective churches, Leesburg Christian and Cynthiana Baptist, have allotted storage space for gifts that they buy early.

That type of extreme advance planning may appeal to project coordinators, but even if participating organizations don't want to go that far, Arnold suggested that churches and community groups might like the advantage of gathering items in the summer rather than waiting until the holiday season rush.

November is when things get intense, she explained. If participants wait until November to start, they'll be scrambling to enlist volunteers, buy items, get shoeboxes stuffed and submitted for shipping.

"People just can't beat the price of school supplies in the summer," Power added.

In addition to getting a jump start on buying items, Operation Christmas Child could also benefit from active volunteer coordinators from participating organizations as well.

"It's never too early to get started on planning. And getting this kind of start can make the November scramble a lot less hectic," Arnold said.

Operation Christmas Child is one of the most popular charitable giving projects in central Kentucky during the holiday season, she said.

Many local churches and civic groups participate by gathering items to place in the familiar shoeboxes that are subsequently shipped to children in countries all over the world.

Kentucky is one of the leading states for Operation Christmas Child. Last year, the Commonwealth collected over 196,992 shoeboxes.

Most of those donations were directed toward children in African countries along the Atlantic coast, such as Nigeria and Cameroon.

"It is amazing how much the children appreciate these gifts every year. What many of our children receive in their stocking is all they will receive for a Christmas. And they love it," Arnold said.

Churches and civic groups talk a lot about the spirit of the holiday season lasting all year long.

Those who would like to get a jump start and make their holiday season one to enjoy, contact Nickie Power at 588-9425 or Dawn Arnold at 588-0339 to get started.

Residents are several months and years past due, totaling several thousands of dollars.

It provided a list of delinquent payments to most of the 51 households in the Cedarbrook neighborhood, though it did not delineate specific addresses or households.

The questions that the PSC posed to R.A. Williams included an explanation of the $216,000 that the treatment plant owes the company; explanation of the enforcement procedures the company has in place to obtain monthly payments from delinquent customers; and if there was a water shut-off agreement with the customer or the utility providing water to the Cedarbrook neighborhood.

The PSC granted R.A. Williams a 60-day extension last April to respond to these questions.

However, instead of answers to the 16 questions, R.A. Williams issued the withdrawal request, Andrew Melnykovich, PSC Public Information Officer, said Monday afternoon.

In a phone interview Tuesday morning, Osborne declined to comment on questions concerning R.A. Williams' past management of the Cedarbrook facility.

"There is no point in going over the past," Osborne said. "We are interested in moving forward."

Osborne reiterated his company's intention to "work with all involved parties to find a solution to the Cedarbrook situation."

How the company intended to do that, however, was another subject about which Osborne declined comment.

"We have been in contact with the Harrison Judge-Executive. It's not my place to say anything more since nothing has been done. But we welcome the chance to work with other interests," Osborne said.

According to Melnykovich, following R.A. Williams' withdrawal request, the PSC issued an order for a telephone conference call for Wednesday, July 2.

Invited to the conference will be PSC representatives, Osborne, and Greg Dutton, assistant attorney-general, "who will be representing the interests of the Cedarbrook residents," Melnykovich said.

The meeting, however, will not be public.

An open meeting request from the Cynthiana Democrat was denied by the PSC Office of General Council on the grounds that the teleconference did not fall under the open meetings law.

The PSC General Council issued this statement in response to the open meeting request: "The informal conference to be held with Cedarbrook Utilities has been scheduled for the [Public Service] Commission Staff to discuss the status of the issues in the case. None of the three Public Service Commissioners, who are the members of this agency, will be attending or participating in the informal conference. For these reasons, the informal conference is not an open meeting as defined in KRS 61.810, and person(s) who are not parties to the case do not have a right to attend. Therefore, your request is denied."

Sad to say that bullying doesn't end with age

From the my-how-time-flies file, I sent out an email this week to David Case, assistant superintendent of Harrison County schools, requesting the class assignments and bus routes for the coming school year.

Yes. It's coming quickly.
In less than a month, we will have those printed in a special insert in The Cynthiana Democrat. Then, on Aug. 13, Harrison County students will be heading back to their classrooms for another year.

We are very fortunate to have Kayla Pickrell join our staff for 10 weeks this summer as an intern. She's new to the area, but having grown up in a Navy family, she learned early how to make new friends in new places.

She came to Cynthiana with the same friendly outlook.

Unfortunately, she soon learned that Cynthiana isn't all-welcoming.

We hear a lot of talk about bullying these days, and rightly so.

Primarily we hear how it affects our young people. However, our young people are not the only ones who are subjected to ugly, hurtful words.

I've heard Cynthiana City Commissioner Billy Grayson encourage everyone to put their best foot forward to make Cynthiana the best it can be for "visitors."

His comments are geared toward the physical appearance of Cynthiana.

I want to take that one step farther; we should welcome newcomers to Cynthiana and encourage them in their endeavors and not bully them when their ideals are not our own.

Constructive criticism is one thing, and while it may be hard to swallow, sometimes it's necessary to be reminded of a bigger picture.

Berating someone is not the way to go.

We all have gone through teenage angst. It's a tough time in the growing up process.

You would think that once you reached adulthood, your educated peers would know the difference between constructive criticism and being a bully.

A big shout out to the Project Playground camp!

Those young families are a testament to how to get things done.

There has been much talk recently about how discussions and progress stagnate once they reach the walls of bureaucracy.

The young people who wanted to improve the playground at Flat Run Veterans' Park had a vision for toddler-appropriate equipment and went out on their own to make it happen.

Their first step was to get blessings from the Cynthiana City Commission and the Harrison County Fiscal Court to proceed.

Then they launched a massive fundraising campaign. The goal was $40,000.

They raised over half the needed funds in a very short period of time.

When the deadline approached and they were still a little behind the needed funds, they made their successful pitch for assistance from the governments.

There is no doubt that they would have been able to raise the total given enough time. However, it was important to get the equipment out there as soon as possible.

Now, with the help of volunteers at the state's road department, the equipment is up and ready to be enjoyed.

This Friday at 11 a.m., a ribbon-cutting ceremony will be held at the playground to officially wrap up the less-than-a-year-long crusade.

Committee members for the Project Playground are: McCauley, Cassie Moses, Codye McCann, Emily Ammerman, Mandy Gossett-Thornton, and Jennifer Gossett.

Kudos to all of those involved.

Reader endorses driver improvement program

To the editor:

I just attended a program entitled "Driver Improvement 55+." This program was sponsored by the Harrison County Homemakers in conjunction with AAA Motor Club and the Kentucky State Troopers. Our instructor was State Trooper Kendra Wilson who was an expert on the subject of driving among other things. It was a four hour class and we learned throughout the four hours. She informed us of the safest way to perform when two wheels of your vehicle run off the road, what Troopers look for to spot intoxicated drivers, what to do in emergency situations, and just too much to mention here.

She made us really think about safety when behind the wheel, for instance 10 and two are not the recommended hand placement on the steering wheel. Kendra told a story about a man who always went to the store at 7:30 every morning to get groceries. It was very foggy one morning and he headed out and lost his bearings in the fog and went southbound on a northbound road. That was his last morning on earth. He could have waited for the fog to lift. We were also taught how to adjust our mirrors so that there isn't a blind spot and it was amazing to see how big the blind spot is for truckers.

I hope if this program is offered again, that drivers over 55 will register as classes are limited to 30. We also were given a special presentation by Jara Bauer on driving with diabetes and on conclusion were given cards that state "I am not intoxicated, I have diabetes" and instructs the finder on what to do. Kendra said that would help the troopers out immensely and could potentially save their life.

Many thanks to Kendra and Jara for their expertise.

harriCYN Community Theatre makes plans for upcoming productions

By JOSH SHEPHERD, News Writer

The Halloween season in Cynthiana just stepped up a notch for 2014 with the harriCYN Community Theater announcing “Dracula” as its fall production at the Old Jail downtown.

Missy Lutz, chair of the harriCYN Community Theater board, said that members selected Dracula as its major production in the fall to tie-in and support the popular Cynthiana Ghost Walk, both of which make excellent use of the spooky atmosphere of the historic jailhouse on Pike Street.

Auditions for Dracula are scheduled for Friday and Saturday, July 18 -19, from 6 - 8:30 p.m. with possible call backs on July 20.

It's not the first time the jail's rock walls and bars have been used to perform classic ghost stories. The Rohs Opera House has used the location to present the famous story of David Sheely to local theatergoers.

It's a perfect place to relate another tale of the undead.

Directing the feature will be a newcomer to the community theater, Justin Arnold, an actor and director from Paris.

Arnold was last seen in Cynthiana as an actor in a “A Wicked Evening” last fall.

Though “Dracula” will be his directing debut in Cynthiana, it will not be his first time in the chair.

Among his extensive experience working in regional and community theater around the central Kentucky area, Arnold recently directed a production of “The Jungle Book” for the Georgetown Community Theater.

With regard to plans for Dracula, Lutz not only promises a very dramatic gothic atmosphere for the famous play, thanks to the old jailhouse, but also plenty of blood as well.

“This play will not be for the small children. There will be blood,” Lutz said excitedly.

Dracula is scheduled for five performances: Friday and Saturday, October 10-11 and 17-18 beginning at 9 p.m. with an extra special performance scheduled for Halloween night starting at 10 p.m.

“We're working with the Rohs Opera House for a package evening with their Ghost Walks on the weekends of our shows. It's going to make Halloween in Cynthiana a big deal,” Lutz said.

Give'Em Hell Harry returns

Those who missed Doug Stephens' performance as Harry Truman in “Give'Em Hell Harry” earlier this year will get a second chance in July.

Stephens will reprise his performance as the community theater's contribution to the Cynthiana Art Walk on the last weekend of July, sponsored by the Cynthiana-Harrison County Chamber of Commerce and the Cynthiana Arts Council.

The play will be performed free in the harriCYN Community Theater building, next door to Rohs Opera House, for one night only, Friday, July 25, at 6:15 p.m.

There will be room for only 50 people, so admission will be on a first-come, first-served basis, Lutz said.

“We're glad to have Doug [Stephens] bring his show back for a return engagement. It will be an abridged version of the play so people can take in the show and also enjoy other aspects of the Art Walk,” Lutz said.

Legally Blonde and Grease

Next spring, harriCYN Community Theater will stage the musical “Legally Blonde.”

Sean Whitaker will direct the popular Broadway musical. Rights for the play have already been purchased and auditions will happen sometime in September.

Next fall, though, the community theater is embarking on its most ambitious project yet - a production of the blockbuster musical “Grease.”

“The rights to put ‘Grease’ on-stage are very expensive,” Lutz said. However, the board thought it would be a perfect companion to go with the Harrison County Rod Run in 2015, she added.

Therefore, the community theater's latest fundraising efforts will be focused on bringing “Grease” to Cynthiana.

“Donations are welcome. But we hope Harrison County folks will get behind this effort and support our fundraisers,” Lutz said.

Movie Warehouse has moved to Harrison Square

By BECKY BARNES, Editor

After 20 years at the corner of Bridge and Main streets, Movie Warehouse has found a new home.

Kayla Linville, manager of Movie Warehouse, said the store was closing early Tuesday night so that everything could be relocated to their new site at 930 U.S. 27 South Suite 4, which is adjacent to The Flower Box Florist.

Movie Warehouse, which is owned by Garnett Furnish, was scheduled to re-open Wednesday morning at 10 a.m.

Linville said the new location will accommodate the eight lay-down tanning beds as well as one stand-up bed. The same movies and games will also still be available for rent.

Linville said the Movie Warehouse staff is looking forward to serving its customers in its new location.

The Bridge Street building is owned by BankTrust Financial, which also has a branch at that locale.

Tonya Dryden, president of BankTrust, said Tuesday that the bank had plans for the property. However, she said she was not a liberty to disclose the plans at this time.

More information will be coming soon, Dryden said.

Refugee

La was the son of a farming family in Kampuchea (Cambodia) during the brief rule of the Khmer Rouge regime. His father and mother worked on a farm that had been in their family for generations. It contained a large rice paddy and vegetables in a village not far from the border to Thailand.

At 7 years old, La didn't know much about the political climate in his home country. In 1978, Vietnamese troops invaded Cambodia and, during a one-year civil war, managed to overthrow the Khmer Rouge leadership. La only understood that there was sporadic gun fire and explosions.

It wasn't a safe time at all.

When things became particularly dangerous in the country, La's uncle suggested that the family escape the war by crossing the border into Thailand.

“My uncle helped a lot of Cambodian families across the Thai border to escape the war,” La said.

Despite the obvious dangers in staying, La's father and mother did not want to lose their farm. It had been in the family for generations and it was the only possession they had that was really worth something, he said.

“If they abandoned it, they would have lost it forever,” La said.

They chose to remain behind, but his father entrusted La to his uncle's care. In the middle of the night, La joined his uncle's family on an overnight escape to the Thai border.

Even at such a young age, La understood the danger of this undertaking. The family was at risk whether they were discovered by Vietnamese or Khmer Rouge forces.

La left his home with only the clothes he was wearing. He didn't even have shoes. In the night there was distant shooting and explosions, jungle noises, and more raw fear than he had ever experienced in his life.

“We spent the entire night sneaking through the jungle. My uncle knew the way to go, but we were peering around trees and making sure all was clear before tiptoeing for the next place to take cover,” La said.

Fortune smiled upon La's family that night. They managed to cross into Thailand undetected. They even managed to evade the border guards trying to keep people from escaping.

His only regret was that there was no way a message could be sent to let his family know he had survived. His uncle's family was his family now and they took up residence in a small staked out area of a Cambodian refugee camp in Thailand.

This small space would be La's home for the next two years.

“The Thai people hated us. We were under guard and were not supposed to leave. Not that we had any place to go,” La said.

Though La had managed to escape the war that ravaged his own country, in Thailand they were stuck in the worst kind of limbo.

The United Nations, Red Cross and other non-governmental agencies provided relief supplies and basic necessities, but that was it. There was no place to go, nothing to do except buy food from the market and exist.

“If we were caught away from the camp or trying to escape into the mainland, we risked being beaten. There was even a possibility that we could be killed,” La said.

The only hope they had during this long wait came from a sponsor they acquired from the United States. It was a pastor from a church in Providence, Rhode Island.

Their sponsor provided some of the aid that they needed at the camp. And then they brought the family to the United States.

“It was a real culture shock. I was 10 and all I had known was my little corner of Asia. I knew rice paddies and gardens, I knew war and surviving as a refugee. And suddenly, there was none of that. I didn't even understand the language enough to know the difference between ‘yes’ and ‘no,’” La said.

That became very important early when a kind woman offered him a cookie, which he wanted very badly.

“I didn't know how to say ‘yes’ and I told her ‘no’ and she put away the cookie. It tore me up,” La said, laughing at the memory.

His family was taken in and made members of the church in Providence.

Because La was an orphan refugee, not even knowing if his mother and father had survived the war that he had escaped, he qualified for state and federal assistance through the Aid for Dependent Children program, which helped him a great deal to build a new life here in the United States.

In his late 20s, he earned a professional degree from the International Academy of Design and Technology in Florida. In 2002, mere months after the 9-11 tragedy, he earned his United States citizenship and at age 32, enlisted in the U.S. army.

He served eight years, including two tours of duty on the front lines in Afghanistan and two tours in Iraq.

Returning to war torn locations after a few years of relative peace was an interesting experience for La. “I found that I could adapt to those conditions without much problem. But then, the army gave us food and uniforms and equipment. I had none of that when I was seven,” La said.

He spent three years in Fort Knox, Kentucky, where he met his wife and the state that now serves as his home.

“I received so much assistance and aid from this country that I would not have felt right not serving this country. I had to give something back to this place before I could go on into my own business,” La said.

Now, in Cynthiana, he feels free to pursue his own version of “The American Dream.” Several years after he left Cambodia in the darkness, he discovered that his parents and siblings were still alive. His mother has since passed away, but his father still lives. He has returned to visit on several occasions.

But La's home, and his family, are here in the United States.

Bill R. Dunaway, 79

Bill R. Dunaway, 79, was born in Richmond, Ky. on Feb. 27, 1935 and died at his home in Ocoee, Fla. on June 5, 2014.

He was the son of the late William and Opal Dunaway formerly of Cynthiana. He graduated from Harrison County High School on May 24, 1953, Eastern Kentucky University, with a Bachelor of Science degree, majoring in accounting and business administration. From the time he was a young boy he loved to count things. He spent 17 years of his professional career at WeatherKing, an air conditioning manufacturer; designing, implementing and perfecting all financial processes of the company. He loved the role he played there and never considered it work.

In 1998, Bill retired and a few months later, his second grandson was born. He was never busier. He babysat and picked Sam and Michael up from school daily from that point on. If he hadn't been an accountant, he might have been a farmer. He loved working in his garden and raising all kinds of vegetables and he loved his tractor. He had citrus trees and a garden every year.

His priority was always his family and providing for them. He was selfless. Charlotte and the kids always got the new car; Bill got the hand-me-down one. He invested in his family, from speech therapy for Billy, to private schools, to buying his daughters new cars, to college education and two weddings.

He was very independent, never asked for help, never borrowed from his neighbors and hated having to finally get a yard service.

He was proud of his 1953 graduating class of H.C.H.S. and always looked forward to the class reunion. His last trip to Cynthiana was September 2013 for his 60th class reunion.

He is survived by his wife of 54 years, Charlotte Ramage Dunaway, a beautiful girl from Kentucky he met in Orlando, Fla.; his son, William Brian Dunaway; two daughters, Scarlett Lynn (Randall) Root, and Kristi Rae (Corey) Tilton; and three grandchildren, Samuel and Michael Root, and Madeleine Sophie Tilton. He was greatly loved and will be sorely missed.

Funeral services were held at Boyd Funeral Directors in Salem, Ky. on Wednesday, June 11. Burial was in Dyer Hill Cemetery, Burna, Ky.

City gives nod to code enforcement move to planning commission

By BECKY BARNES, Editor

Preliminary steps have been taken to bring Cynthiana's code enforcement under the auspices of the planning commission.

Bonnie Skinner, planning commission director, told city commissioners that combining the part-time positions of building inspector and code enforcement officer into one full-time position made sense.

She added that the city's financial responsibility would drop by $3,500.

"It's not a new idea," Skinner said. "It's a pooling of resources."

The commission unanimously approved the first reading of three ordinances that would begin the process.

The first ordinance adds language to the existing code enforcement ordinance to provide that the planning administrator and building inspector may make complaints. Citizen complaints will still be encouraged.

The second ordinance deals with nuisance abatement. The third is the rental housing inspection and licensing ordinance. Each added language to include the planning administrator and building inspector in the process.

Mayor Steve Moses appointed a two-member committee of Billy Grayson and Roger Slade to work with Skinner to determine financial needs.

In other business, the commission:

- Approved a resolution authorizing the mayor to sign a joint application with the fiscal court and Harrison

County Judge-Executive Alex Barnett for a grant from the Kentucky Office of Homeland Security.

- Authorized the mayor to sign documents for the city's health insurance program, which is partially self-funded. Employees' premiums are anticipated to be reduced from last year's premiums.
- Rejected a bid on a 2001 Crown Victoria police cruiser. The city received only one bid for $150. The commission agreed to re-advertise for bids with a $500 minimum bid on the city's police cruiser.
- Heard Emily Ammerman, Main Street Program director and a member of the Project Playground committee, report that a ribbon cutting ceremony will be held at 11 a.m. Friday at Flat Run Veterans Park for the opening of the new toddler equipment.

- Heard Commissioner Grayson report that a 55-by-70 poured concrete basketball court will soon be added to the park.
- Acknowledged Harrison County Magistrate Frank Henson, who told the court that the 50 lights for the walking trail could be installed soon with the help of Haviland Argo.
- Heard Grayson ask Roger Slade if the public works crew could pick up boards with nails at a vacant house at 215 Wilson Ave. Grayson said he feared a child will be injured playing on them.

City Attorney John Lair suggested that the property and the boards be documented with before and after photographs.

Main Street director reminds court that joint venture needs cooperation

By KAYLA PICKRELL, Intern

The Cynthiana Main Street plan warranted discussion Tuesday evening at the Harrison County Fiscal Court meeting.

Emily Ammerman, Cynthiana Main Street project director, reminded the court of the cooperation between city and county that is needed to make the plan a reality.

"A lot of past plans have failed because of lack of cooperation," Ammerman said.

Magistrate Larry Wells thought some of the one-, five-, 10- and 20-year plans weren't aggressive enough.

"I would like to see all of these years change to months," Wells said.

In particular, he wanted to see the abandoned buildings taken care of earlier than the 20 years for which the plan has it scheduled.

Ammerman took note of the request and expressed that she wished she could move things quickly.

"There are baby steps," Ammerman said. She said that Cynthiana is in "desperate need of businesses" downtown.

"The plan is going to evolve constantly based on what is accomplished and to meet the needs of people in Cynthiana," Ammerman added.

Ammerman is still trying to get prices on the plan to bring to the city and county, but she is visiting city commission and fiscal court as often as possible to keep them updated on the plan's progress.

"I know this program has popped up in the middle of nowhere," Ammerman said. She thanked the fiscal court for helping with the plan.

County Judge-Executive Alex Barnett reminded the magistrates that the fiscal court has already started contributing to the Cynthiana Main Street plan.

"The lines going to the courthouse will now be buried," Barnett said. He added that the lines were in the progress of being buried during construction Tuesday.

In other news:

- The fiscal court approved the hiring of Steve Slade as Deputy Jailor effective July 1. Magistrate Bradley Marshall abstained from voting due to family relations. Missy Lutz was absent.
- The fiscal court approved a contract with NaturChem to perform roadside vegetation spraying along county roadways.

- Marshall assured the fiscal court that there were "no major breakdowns" and the roads were cleared from the storm Monday.
- The playground is complete at Flat Run Veterans' Park and the ribbon cutting will be June 27 at 11 a.m.
- Approved authorization to apply for a Kentucky Office of Homeland Security grant to have an EMA generator in the County Clerk's office.

YARD OF THE MONTH. The Yard of the Month contest winner for July is Allen Moore at 135 Western Ave. He, along with his advisor (Linda) enjoys planning, planting and taking care of their many mini gardens. Allen has laid out garden paths using bricks and large pavers and he must not like weeds because there wasn't one to be found. Their gardens bloom sequentially so there is always color to be found. Allen has egg yolk tomato plants which are very unusual. The fruit is like a cherry tomato but does not get red, it is ready when it turns a little yellow and they say the fruit is delicious. Allen's favorite flower is the ground cover dianthis which is very well established. The first runner up is Richard Wooten along with his wife Kathy. Their gardens are a work in progress and he gave us this gardening tip-It's the soil. Each bed has soil that has been enhanced and looks just like the soil that you see on the TV gardening shows. Get your nominations in for August by calling Pat Slade at 234-8516.

Organic fertilizer recipe, good for soil, plant

If you are a regular reader of my column you likely know that I much prefer an organic approach to farm and gardening and that I believe that building healthy soil produces healthy food.

As I continue to learn more about pest control and fertility, the more I have come to understand why healthy plants and animals have an edge over their synthetically

Jeneen Wiche

doped counterparts.

The other day I needed to do some fertilization in the vegetable patch so I gathered up some supplies that included bags of alfalfa meal, bone meal and cottonseed meal.

It made sense to me that the mixture would supply a more complete slow release source of nitrogen, phosphorus and potassium, as well as important trace elements like calcium, magnesium, zinc and copper. But to perfect the concoction I turned to a recipe of Steve Solomon's, an organic gardener, author and founder of Territorial Seed Company.

Solomon's mixture includes seed meals, lime, bone meal, kelp meal and some rock dust.

Each does something special in terms of improving the soil and feeding our plants. He suggests that we shallowly work 4 to 6 quarts per 100 square foot bed before planting and then again as a side dressing to vegetable plants that are considered medium to heavy feeders every 3 to 4 weeks during the growing season.

Medium feeders include Brussels sprouts, cabbage, cucumbers, squash, peppers, tomatoes, potatoes and garlic.

Seed meals (made from cotton seed, soybeans, flaxseed, alfalfa, etc.) typically have a nitrogen-phosphorus-potassium (N-P-K) ratio of 6-4-2.

Lime is important because it contains calcium but be aware that there are different forms of lime.

Dolomitic lime is the best because it has calcium and magnesium carbonates. Agricultural lime is mostly calcium carbonates; and gypsum is mostly calcium carbonate.

This may not mean much to us but to plants the extra trace elements, or micronutrients, are needed in small amounts and these various forms of lime provide them. Solomon recommends that we use a mixture of all three, ideally.

Solomon also warns that quicklime, burnt lime and hydrated lime should never be used in the mixture.

Bone meal is rich in phosphorus, necessary for plants to bloom well; and kelp meal provides the entire range of trace elements as well as hormonal components that help to regulate growth and maintain vigor (some say, however; that the power of kelp is a bit exaggerated).

Rock dusts (which I have absolutely no experience with) are apparently a good source of micronutrients and can be used in place of the kelp meal.

So, now that we have our ingredients we need the recipe.

Grab a big bucket and a scoop and measure out by volume 4 parts seed meal, one-quarter part agricultural lime, one-quarter part gypsum, one-half part dolomitic lime; and he urges for best results, add one part bone meal or rock phosphate dust, and one-half to one part kelp meal.

Organic fertilizer is as potent as synthetic so do not over use it.

The difference between the two, however, is synthetic fertilizer delivers the nutrient dose way too fast and it does nothing to improve soil quality.

Organic fertilizers provide nutrients to plants at a rate they can absorb and use and they improve the soil because they also feed the good microbes in the soil that further improve plant health.

Inscription added to Caleb West's Battlegrove monument

By JOSH SHEPHERD, NEWS WRITER

The Harrison County Historical Society added some missing recognition last Thursday to an historic figure buried at Battlegrove Cemetery.

Caleb W. West, born in Harrison County in May 1844 to Andrew Jackson and Katherine (Murphy) West, may have held the highest political office of any historic figure at the cemetery, Don Wagoner, president of the historical society, said.

In 1886, West was appointed by President Grover Cleveland to two terms as Territory Governor of Utah.

This was before Utah became a state, so he wielded a great deal of administrative authority at the time, Wagoner said.

Most of West's immediate family were also Harrison County residents. He was educated in Cynthiana, studied and practiced law until his political appointments.

In addition to his political appointment, he served as Harrison County Judge in 1868 and as City Attorney from 1876-1879.

His position in high office would likely go unnoticed if one visited his grave site, Wagoner said. West's tombstone only carried his birth date and the date of his burial on February 2, 1909.

Thanks to the work of the historical society, however, an inscription has been added recognizing West's significant service in history.

"As we discover the history of other historic figures at Battlegrove, we [the society] hope to continue adding these inscriptions," Wagoner said.

Local businesses will star in new Cynthiana board game

By KAYLA PICKRELL, INTERN

A modern update on a 1970s Cynthiana game is underway and being pieced together by the Cynthiana Chamber of Commerce.

Cynthiana and Harrison County businesses will fill each of the 42 spaces of the Monopoly-like board, the money, the box and even the fate cards (chance cards).

The original board had companies such as WCYN, Ken's, The Cynthiana Democrat and Harrison County High School as spaces.

"The new board will have a modern look and will highlight local businesses," said Kelly Grenier, summer intern for the Chamber. Grenier is tasked to find local businesses who want to have their landmark on the board and to design the game during her eight-week internship.

Although only two weeks remain, Grenier said she has "well over half of the spaces filled."

The opportunity for a space was offered originally to the Chamber members, and is now available to the public.

Some of the businesses with spaces are Harrison Memorial Hospital, Ware Funeral Home, Cynthiana-Harrison County Library, Verizon Wireless, Battle Grove Cemetery, WCYN and Leono's. 3M bought the "railroad" spaces and are planning to use each space as a different product.

"Everyone is really excited," Grenier said. "Some people instantly see the board as something their kids would like to play with."

Instead of yellow, purple, red or blue spaces that are traditional of Monopoly boards, there may be no color spaces. This would give the opportunity for businesses to all have the same opportunity to be landed on.

"It will be places that you know and we'll make it personal," Grenier said. "This is an advertising opportunity that will carry for years to come."

The front of the box will feature pictures of the town. Fate and Destiny cards can be personalized, such as "You caught the flu, go to Harrison Memorial Hospital and pay $100" or "You won the Post-It Note Fashion Show, collect $100," Grenier said.

The Old Jailhouse will represent the "Go To Jail" space, and instead of houses and hotels, there will be condos and homes.

Although it is a representation of a Monopoly board, it is made by a company called Custom-Opoly who can customize every aspect of the game. Artwork can be submitted, as well as logos for the businesses who participate.

"We've had a wonderful response from the community," Grenier said. "For some it has been a walk down memory lane."

A name hasn't been decided for the board game because there are some businesses interested in Harrison County. Whether it will be a county or town board game will be decided in the next couple of weeks.

Prices are: spaces, $150; recognition on fate or destiny cards, $250; and recognition on the money, $300. There are also advertising spots available.

A free copy of the game will be given to those who purchase a space.

"Cynthiana has a lot to offer," Grenier said. "This board game will show it."

Although the price may fluctuate, the estimated price for the board game is $25. All profits from the board game go into Cynthiana's tourism fund.

"Not only is this a way to fundraise, but a way to spread the word of Cynthiana," said Pat Grenier, the Cynthiana Chamber of Commerce executive director.

Kentucky Sheriffs' Boys & Girls Ranch marks 39th year of summer camp

The Kentucky Sheriffs' Boys and Girls Ranch summer camping program opened for their 39th camping season on Sunday, June 15 with boys in attendance. The camp runs throughout June and July, serving both boys and girls, alternately throughout the camp season.

The Boys and Girls Ranch is a non-profit organization, serving Kentucky's youth through a summer camping program designed to build their self-esteem, while teaching them respect for themselves, others and law enforcement professionals. The camp is free to the campers, thanks to the dedication and support of our Sheriffs, members and contributors. The cost of serving the children is now well over $300 per week per child. With continued support from our contributors, we will continue to reach these most deserving youth.

"In addition to regular camp activities such as camp fires, arts and crafts, nature, sports, swimming, fishing, archery, and many others, the campers also enjoy race cars presented by local citizens, a fire prevention program by the Gilbertsville Fire Department, a drug awareness education program by the Marshall County Sheriffs' Office, and the McCracken County Child Watch program," Wagner said. "It should be a week filled with fun and learning for the campers. We hope the campers create a lifetime of memories during their stay, as well as learn the values of respect and many other life skills."

Wagner added, "On behalf of the campers and staff, we send our heartfelt thanks to everyone who has lent their hand this year. Your outpouring of support is allowing us to continue our work and is greatly appreciated and has not gone unnoticed."

Boys in attendance the week of June 15 were from the following counties: Allen, Barren, Bracken, Caldwell, Daviess, Harrison, Hopkins, Lawrence, Marion, Oldham, Owen, Pike, Shelby, Simpson, Spencer, Warren and Wolfe.

For more information about the Boys and Girls Ranch or how you can invest in a child's life and help build Kentucky's youth, call the Ranch at 270-362-8660.

The Administrative Office of the Courts provided the judicial education program for the state's circuit court clerks.

The circuit court clerks attended courses on the expungement process, court technology, working with the media, bookkeeping and disaster preparation. They also heard from motivational speaker Jeff Eger on leadership, community involvement and relationships with the public and other government officials.

The college covered driver licensing and included sessions on the graduated driver license program, state traffic school, new federal laws for issuing commercial driver licenses, procedures after a driver is deceased and security practices for driver licensing offices.

Smith named artistic director of Rohs Theatre Company

The Rohs Opera House announces the recent incorporation of a partnering organization to help bring live theatre to the stage in downtown Cynthiana. The Rohs Theatre Company formally incorporated with the State of Kentucky on June 6, 2014 as a non-profit theatre to promote performing arts in the region and in the historic Rohs Opera House.

The RTC has been doing theatrical performances as an informal group at the Rohs and in the community since 2007 when it first produced A Christmas Carol Radio Drama.

It has also produced Dinner with David Sheely, A Christmas Story, and most recently Dearly Departed.

This next phase in the performers' evolution allows them to better promote performing arts and assist in the restoration efforts of the historic Rohs Opera House.

Lending direction, assistance, and over 30 years of hands-on theatre experience to this endeavor will be Becky Smith, who has been appointed as the company's artistic director. Becky has a master's degree in theatre and a practical background of theatre management/administration, PR, marketing, season selection and stepping into other roles of theatre to get the job done.

On the artistic side, she was a founding member of three companies (Junkyard Players, The Phoenix Group and Lexington's Shakespeare in the Park), has acted in over 100 shows, and directed over 30 shows.

On the local front, she directed last spring's production of To Kill A Mockingbird and did the PR for this spring's production of Steel Magnolias.

Her theatre career has taken her from Cynthiana to Lexington, Somerset, Georgia and Los Angeles. Coming full circle, she is now back in Cynthiana, working in the family business, Smith Insurors. She never dreamed her theatre experience would play out in her hometown and is thrilled to be able to get involved.

The Rohs Theatre Company's first major production will be a contemporary version of William Shakespeare's Romeo and Juliet.

Smith will direct this production and James Smith has signed on as producer. Auditions are scheduled for December 2014 with performances planned in May 2015.

There are several other ideas in the works for 2015 productions.

One of the primary purposes for forming the Rohs Theatre Company has always been to assist the efforts to keep the Rohs Opera House open and growing.

Anyone with a love for theatre and the desire to help the historic local venue stay open is invited to come join the organization.

As a 501c3 charity organization, the RTC's ability to take productions to a new level of excellence will serve to make the Rohs Opera House a regional theatre and performing arts center.

Be watching for future announcements of programs and events. For more information on how you can help or get involved, contact the Rohs at 859-234-9803 or by email at rohs@kymail.com.

Henson wins third Joe Mooney tournament with five stroke margin

By Mike Aldridge, Sports Writer

Last year Cynthiana's Joe Henson walked off the 18th green at the Cynthiana Country Club disappointed in the one-stroke loss to Mason Countian Izzy Grayson.

Sunday afternoon there was no chance for disappointment as the solid, steady lefty came away with a seven-under-par 137 and a five-stroke victory over three players tied for second. Jon Henson, Rex Schalch, and Rus Whalen each shot two-under-par 142 for the 36-hole tournament to finish tied for the runner up spot.

Henson was steady throughout the tournament as he posted a four-under 68 on Saturday to tie Schalch for the lead and came back with a three-under 69 on Sunday while Schalch was shooting a two-over 74.

Joe's brother Jon shot one-under par 71 on both days and Rus Whalen was two-under on Saturday and even on Sunday for his 142.

The Sunday match between Joe Henson and Schalch was tight until the back nine when Schalch hit a drive on number 14 to the far right onto the 18th fairway causing him to double bogey the hole putting Henson firmly in the driver's seat.

From that point, the three-time champ put the game away with excellent play not allowing the competition a chance to get back into the fray.

Henson's third victory in the Joe Mooney Tournament ties him with Wes Furnish.

Only Steve Houchen with four wins, Bart Lenox with six wins and Mike Lenox with 11 wins have more Mooney victories.

The first flight was won by Dane Fritts with a 149 followed by Steve Houchen at 150. Last year's champion Grayson was tied for third with Nathan Fields and Scott Bolin with 151.

Gary Varner won the second flight with 151 with Dave Grayson two strokes back and Chris Hunt and Greg Shirley tied for third with 154.

The third flight winner was Paris resident Bill Meeks who shot 162. Bruce Siesel and Eric Case tied for second with 164. Frank Henson was fourth in the third flight with 165.

Cynthiana's Will Durbin took the fourth flight with a 12-stroke improvement from Saturday's play and a final total of 162. Durbin rallied from an 87 to post a score of 75 on Sunday to defeat Brian Parker by four strokes. Harrison County High School's former golfer Myles Davis shot 171 to finish third.

The fifth flight saw the biggest improvement from Saturday to Sunday as Mike Aldridge improved 20 strokes from one day to the next. John Hurley of Georgetown showed a 13-stroke improvement to win the flight with a 177. Roger Wafford was second and Weston Jenkins third with 181.

Ninety-three golfers participated in the 50th annual Joe Mooney Invitational with a large crowd of well wishers on hand Sunday for the final round.

Breds work at three camps, looking for next year's combinations

By Mike Aldridge, Sports Writer

"We got to look at several different combinations," said Coach Larry Kendall. "We are trying to find out who can help us next basketball season."

That is how Harrison County's staff approached the three camps that they just completed during the last weeks.

The Georgetown College camp saw the Breds take four teams. They took a varsity "A" team and "B" team, a freshman team and an eighth grade squad to compete against multiple opponents.

The varsity teams were three and three in the Georgetown camp with wins over Lincoln County, Montgomery County and Miami Valley Christian Academy from Cincinnati. The losses came twice with Oldham County and to Scott County.

In the Montgomery County camp, the Thorobreds were again even as they won twice and lost twice. They lost to Mason County and Montgomery County while defeating Bourbon County and Fleming County.

The Covington Holmes camp was a little more difficult as the Harrison County team was one in three for the camp. The losses came to Holmes, Nelson County and Newport with the one win over Erlanger Lloyd.

The dead period began on Wednesday, June 25, and runs until the second week of July for all sports so the players will be working on their own during this time.

MIKE'S MINUTE

Could I be wrong about soccer?

Most of you know that I am not a huge fan of soccer.

I admit that the athletes who play must be in tremendous shape and that the reason I am not a huge fan may be because I do not understand the rules.

The tremendous outpouring of support by regular people and the media for the World Cup still really surprises me. The media not so much because many members of the media are far left leaning and soccer is a European, central American sport where that is the political climate.

The general public's growing love for soccer I believe stems from the 40 year olds and younger having more exposure to the game in recreational settings while the 40 and older group's exposure was limited if there was any at all.

For me, soccer, like women's high school athletics, came after I was out of school with most of my sporting loves established.

So, when one doesn't understand the game, it is harder to get excited about a match between Mexico and Croatia but the news and sports broadcasts are full of reporting this match as well as the few matches that the United States has played.

It seems like the World Games have been going on forever and the United States has played Ghana and Portugal.

Another thing is how they stop playing when there is a tie.

Someone needs to win when a series that is played only every four years like the World Cup is being contested.

The United States played Portugal to a 2-2 tie Sunday and now in order to advance to the next round the US has to beat or tie Germany.

If they do this, then both the German team and the United States teams advance to the final 16 round. Germany is favored to win the match but so was Portugal on Sunday and only a goal with less than 30 seconds to play allowed them to tie the United States.

Other than not understanding the rules, two things bother me about soccer.

First, there is the constant faking of injuries to

The Dodgers' Josh Garrison closed his team's game against the Rockies last week at River Road Park. The Dodgers battled to an 18-16 win in a game which lasted well over the two-hour time slot normally dedicated to Little League games.

Fillies compile 14-10 record for the summer

By Mike Aldridge, Sports Writer

The Harrison County Fillies head into the dead period after putting together a nice 14-10 record for the summer having played in three camps.

"It was nice to see some of the hard work that the girls have put forth start to pay off," noted Coach Kim Furnish. "The coaches have been pleased with the growth that has been shown as a unit over this 2 ½ week period as well as some individual improvements."

In the three camps, the Fillies won games with Scott County, Nicholas County, Bullitt East, Bracken County, Paris, Sayre, Floyd County and teams from both Ohio and Indiana.

"The team has shown a lot of depth and hustle during the camps," continued Furnish. "We have really pushed them defensively and they have responded well."

Coach Jeff Kinney has joined the Fillies staff working on the players' mindset when it comes to the defensive end of the floor.

"We are extremely excited to have Coach Kinney join our staff," said Furnish.

Two of the camps were in Ohio as the girls participated at the University of Dayton where they were 2-2 and the University of Cincinnati where they were 2-4.

The two Ohio camps had some very good competition and excellent athletes. Sophomore Taylor Reffett was selected by the coaches as the Fillies Most Effective Player at the UC camp. This award is based on positive stats and consistency.

The last event before the dead period was the camp at Georgetown College.

The Fillies were 5-3 in this camp while playing without senior Whitney Gray.

Gray was attending the prestigious Governor's Scholar Program at Murray State University.

"All of us are proud of Whitney for this accomplishment," confirmed Furnish.

The opening day saw the Fillies come out a little tentative and out of rhythm, but by the second day they bounced back to play very well. The last day of camp the Fillies defeated Bullitt Central and lost a tight game to a very athletic Nelson County team.

Madison Kellione was selected as the Most Effective Player while at the Georgetown Camp.

The Fillies will take the dead period off but will resume in late July with work in the weight room and on the court.

try to have the other team penalized or to some how to gain an advantage.

Someone suggested the other day that the rules should be changed so that like in the NBA if a player flops he is penalized.

Second, the rules seemed to be inconsistently administered by the officials.

As I was watching the French play Switzerland (why I don't know) when a Frenchman kicked a Swiss fellow right above the eye causing him to bleed like a stuck hog and have to leave the game.

Why this was not ruled a high kick and at least a yellow card issued confuses me since it seems to be an obvious infraction.

Again, I don't understand the rules and this could be the blame, but I really think that I know this one and it seemed to not be called.

I wish the United States the best against the Germans on Thursday and hope that they can advance.

Maybe since they both can move on with a tie we could send one of our crack negotiators to Germany and work out a play for a tie deal.

National Wildlife Federation to observe Great American Backyard Campout June 28

E.P. "Tom" Sawyer State Park in Louisville will join thousands of families across the nation gathering in their backyards, neighborhoods, communities, and parks on June 28 to enjoy a night of camping for the 10th annual Great American Backyard Campout, presented by National Wildlife Federation.

In conjunction with Great Outdoors Month, the annual event encourages people of all ages to camp in their backyards, neighborhoods, parks and campgrounds, as a way to reconnect with nature.

E.P. "Tom" Sawyer State Park invites families to celebrate Kentucky State Parks' 90th anniversary while camping under the stars in the picnic grove area of the park on June 28.

The day will begin with tips and tricks on basic campsite setup including learning about Leave No Trace ethics from the park naturalist. Families will have the opportunity to learn archery, go on guided hikes, participate in field games, take a dip in the swimming pool, listen to stories while making s'mores at the campfire, and do some stargazing. The Louisville Astronomical Society will be conducting educational sessions.

The fee includes all activities and a hot dog and chips dinner. Campsite set up begins at 2 p.m., with activities to follow beginning at 4 p.m. Contact the park at 502-429-7270 for registration details.

Now in its 10th year, Great American Backyard Campout is a part of National Wildlife Federation's 10 Million Kids Outdoors Campaign. This three-year initiative seeks a future in which all children spend time outside each day, creating a generation of happier and healthier children with more awareness and connection to the natural world. National Wildlife Federation has worked to connect children and youth with nature for decades, inspiring children through Ranger Rick magazine, working with educators to get kids learning outdoors, and helping parents find new ways to engage their children outside.

"Kids need to experience camping, especially in their youth when the wonders of the outdoors can influence their future love for nature and wildlife," said Maureen Smith,

June 28 between 10 a.m. to 1 p.m.

Registration forms can be picked up, dropped off or mailed to Connersville Christian Church, 2190 Ky. Hwy. 1842 East.

For more information contact Kurt Thompson at 859-234-8892.

Golf tryouts will be in July

Harrison County golf coach Jason Crisp has announced the dates for both the boys' team tryouts and the girls' golf team sign ups. In both cases an up-to-date physical has to be with the participant at the tryouts or sign up.

The Thorobreds golf team tryouts will be held Thursday, July 17, at 7:45 a.m. at the Cynthiana Country Club. The format will be an 18-hole tryout with no more than a 10-member team selected.

The Fillies golf team sign up will be Friday, July 18, at 7:30 a.m. also at the Cynthiana Country Club.

Remember that each person trying out or signing up must have an up-to-date physical or they will not be allowed to tryout.
